Grammaire

Morning, Evening, Day, Year

Morning

le matin = the morning (m)

la matinée = the morning (f)

Evening

le soir = the evening (m)

la soirée = the evening (f)

Day

le jour = the day (m)

la journée = the day (f)

Year

l'an = the year (m)

l'année = the year (f)

Le matin, le soir, le jour, l'an

We can use the mASCULINE noun with a number to show quantity.

J'habite en France depuis quinze ans = I have lived in France for 15 years

J'ai passé cinq jours en Espagne= I spent 5 days in Spain

We can also use the mASCULINE noun to show a unit of time - the morning / the evening.

Je me lève à sept heures chaque matin= I get up at 7AM every morning

Je me couche tard le soir = I go to sleep late in the evening

One English word - two French words

	Masculine (Number / general unit of time)
Year	l'an
Day	le jour
Morning	le matin
Evening	le soir

La matinée, la soirée, la journée, l'année

We can use the feminine noun to express a length or duration of time. The implied meaning is that you spent the entire period of time, doing the action.

For example:

On a passé une super journée = We had a great day

Je passe mes soirées à regarder la télé = I spend my evenings watching the TV

One English word - two French words

In French, there are two words for year, day, morning and evening.

Each word expresses a different concept of time.

	Masculine (Number / general unit of time)	Feminine (Entire period of time)
Year	l'an	l'année
Day	le jour	la journée
Morning	le matin	la matinée
Evening	le soir	la soirée
