

English

LO: To explore how writers create clear action

Lesson 7 of 10

Miss Fryer

Anansi moved with silent steps through the strange, dark corridors between worlds, until he reached the secret home of Python.

When he got there, he saw a long stick on the ground, and hatched a sneaky plan. He quickly grabbed the stick and called out, in his sing-song voice, “Oh, Python!”

At once, Python slithered out of her home. She dragged her immense body behind her and stared at Anansi. Anansi smiled a wide, blinding smile, and asked, “Is it true that Cobra is the longest snake?”

