

German

Discussing sports (Part 2/3)

- Using conditional structures

Downloadable Resource

Frau Karmi

OAK NATIONAL ACADEMY

[au]

Haus

glauben

ausgehen

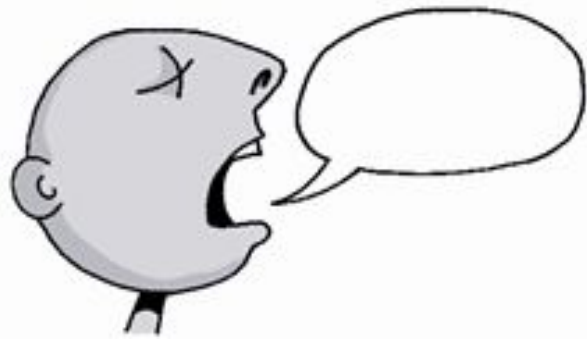

[to go out]

auch

[a]

sagen

Paar

fahren

haben

klar

die Sportart(en)	(type of) sport
der Verein	club
die Mannschaft	team
das Mitglied	member
wettbewerbsfähig	competitive
der Wettbewerb	competition
im Alter von	at the age of

The conditional

The conditional is used to say what you would/could/should do. It allows you to express your hopes and dreams.

Today we will be looking at 2 structures which both mean would like and both need an infinitive at the END of the sentence.

Ich möchte Federball
spielen.

I would like to play
badminton.

Ich würde gern
Mitglied einer
Mannschaft sein.

I would like to be a member of a team.

Can you figure out which words mean
'would like'?
What are the infinitives?

Just a reminder.....

Infinitives end in en, this is how you would find the word in the dictionary.

For example:

spielen - to play

treiben - to do (sport)

Can you think of any other infinitives for the topic area of sport?

Feedback: Give me 5! möchte / würde gern

an infinitive

ends in 'en'

für eine Mannschaft

Meine Schwester möchte/würde gern Vereinsmitglied sein.

1. What are the two ways of saying would like?
2. What do you need at the end when using these structures?
3. What do you need to remember about an infinitive?
4. How would you say: for a team?
5. Translate: My sister would like to be a club member.

