

Describing locations [1/2]

- Singular definite article (el/la)

CA

cantar

calle

casa

co

con

comer

coche

cu
cultura

escuchar

documento

el	the (masculine, singular)
el museo	museum
el banco	bank
el teatro	theatre
el centro	centre
el mercado	market

la	the (feminine, singular)
la tienda	shop
la plaza	square
la iglesia	church
la escuela	school
entre	between
lejos	far
cerca	near

Talking about the location of things

Using the definite articles 'el' and 'la'

All nouns have a gender in Spanish.

Spanish has two genders: masculine and feminine.

To say 'the' before a noun, use 'el' or 'la'.

Masculine nouns

el banco the bank

el teatro the theatre

el mercado the market

Feminine nouns

la iglesia the church

la tienda the shop

la plaza the square

Talking about the location of things

Using 'un', 'una', 'el' and 'la' with hay, es and está.

Use hay (there is, there are) with 'un' and 'una' to introduce a noun.

Use 'el' and 'la' with es or está to refer to it again.

For example:

En Girona, hay un mercado y una iglesia. El mercado es famoso y la iglesia está cerca.

Use está for location.

Use es for permanent traits.

Hay is always followed by 'un' or 'una' (not 'el' or 'la').

Review

1. Use 'el' to mean 'the' for a masculine noun.
2. Use 'la' to mean 'the' for a feminine noun.
3. hay means 'there is' or 'there are'.
4. Use 'es' for 'is' (permanent trait).
5. Use 'está' for 'is' (location / temporary state).

