

German

Talk about going to places (Part 2/2)

- Ordinal numbers
- Nach vs zu meaning ‘to’

Downloadable Resource

Frau Johnson

OAK
NATIONAL ACADEMY

Gesetz

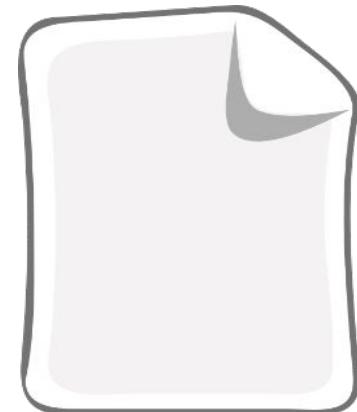

reisen

S

Seite

langsam

Subjekt

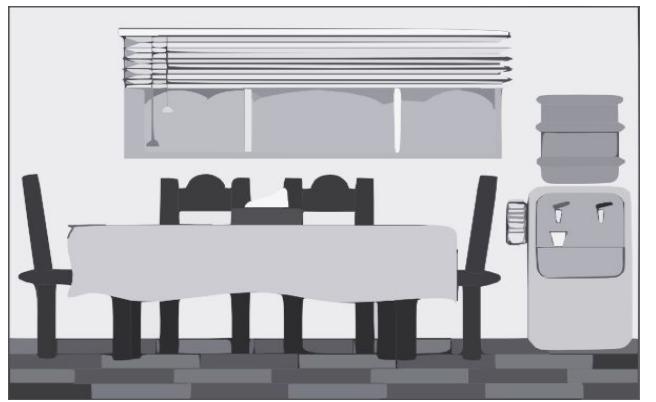

Ich habe Hunger.

Verb

Objekt

Zimmer

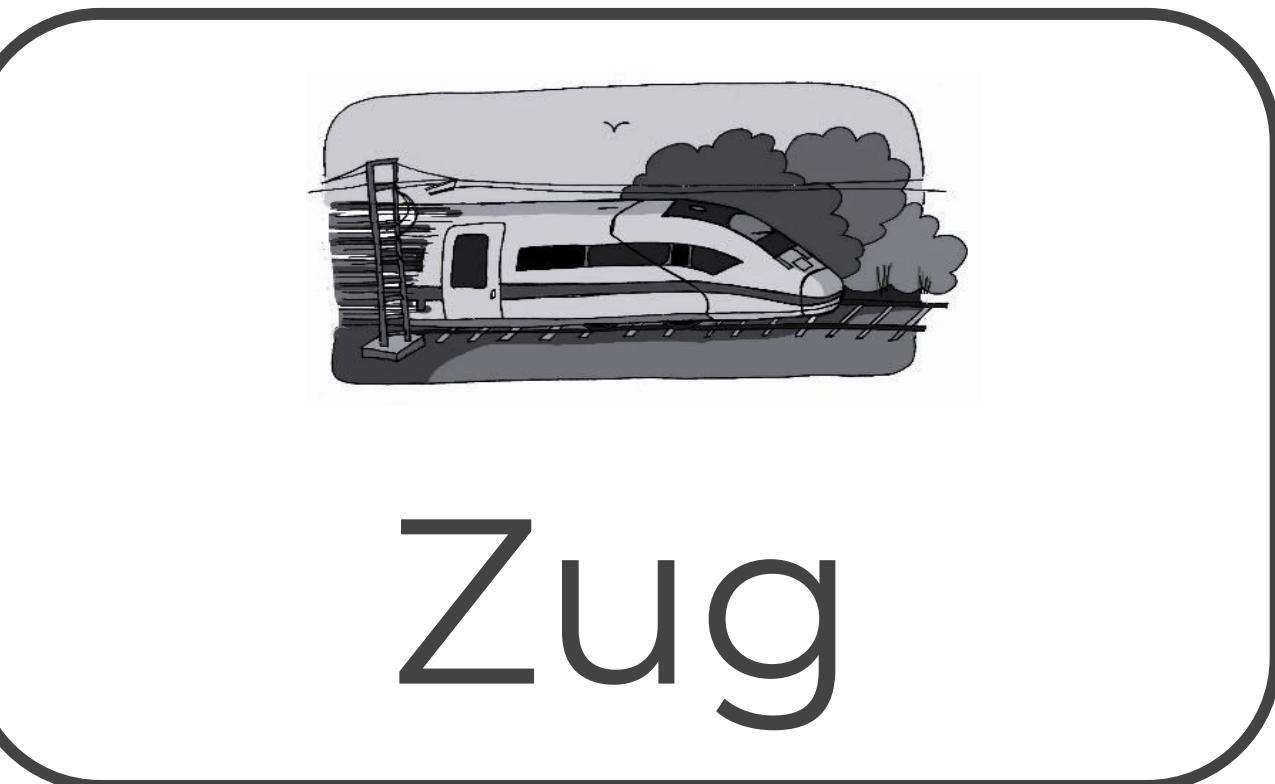

Arzt

Z

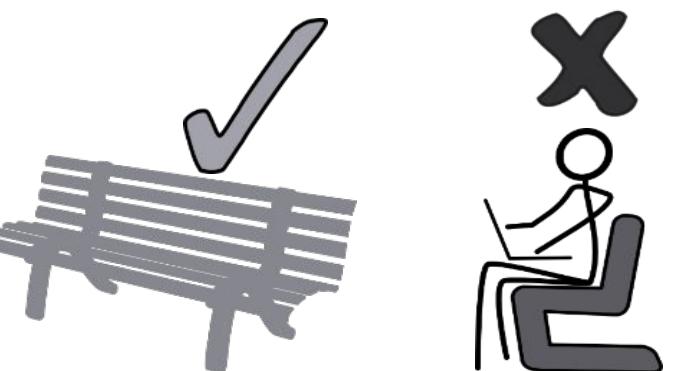

zehn

10

Zug

Platz

notwendig

[necessary]

-ig

wichtig

[important]

fertig

[ready, finished]

Schwierigkeit

[difficulty]

wenig

[little / not very much]

Die Nummern 13-19

German numbers 13-19 are simple sums.

drei (3) + zehn (10) = dreizehn

Some of the numbers lose letters in the teens.

sechs (6) + zehn (10) = sechzehn

sieben (7) + zehn (10) = siebzehn

Die Nummern 21-99

When you hear a number between 21 and 99 write it down from right to left as you will always hear the second number first.

Numbers are always written as one word. Some words can be very long. Just break them down to work them out.

Wann ist das?

Just like in English in German you use ordinal numbers to say dates.

You add -te to the numbers 1-19:

Heute ist der vierte Juni.- Today is the 4th of June.

You use ‘der’ because it is ‘der Tag’.

You add -ste to the numbers 20-31:

Heute ist der zwanzigste Juni. - Today is the 20th of June.

You don’t use any word for ‘of’ in German dates.

Wann ist das?

There are some exceptions to the rules.

der erste- 1st

der dritte- 3rd

der siebte- 7th

Wann ist das?

To say ‘on the’ in German you use the preposition an and the definite article dem.

These two words can be joined together and then they make the word am.

Das Konzert ist am vierten April.

After am you add an ‘n’ to the date.

Nach vs zu meaning ‘to’

Nach and zu can both mean ‘to’.

Nach means ‘to’ with:

City or town names: Ich fahre nach Wien.

Continents: Ich fahre nach Afrika.

Most countries: Ich fahre nach Österreich.

You also know: Ich gehe nach Hause

Remember: gehen is go on foot and fahren is go by transport.

Nach vs zu meaning ‘to’

Use ‘zu’ for places with articles. The article (word for the) changes depending on the gender.

Ich gehe ...	zu dem Strand (der)	zu der Stadt (die)	zu dem Kino (das)
--------------	-------------------------------	------------------------------	-----------------------------

zu dem becomes zum
zu der becomes zur

You also use 'zu' for people, professions and events:

Ich gehe zu Anna

I'm going to Anna's

Ich gehe zum Arzt

I'm going to the doctor

Ich gehe zur Party

I'm going to the party

BUT... Ich bin zu Hause- I am at home

Ich gehe nach Hause- I'm going (to) home

Talking about going places and saying when

When you are saying when you are going somewhere there are two different ways to say it.

1 You can put the date after the verb.

Ich gehe am ersten Mai zum Strand.

2 You can put the date at the start.

Am ersten Mai gehe ich zum Strand.

In the 2nd version the verb and pronoun swap around. The verb likes to be the second idea.

Talking about going places.

- 1 When creating dates in German you add -te to the end of the numbers 1-19.
- 2 You add -ste to the end of the numbers 20-31.
- 3 To say 'to' in German you use either zu _ or nach
- 4 For cities and towns. continents and most countries you use nach.
- 5 For places with articles, people, professions and events you use . zu ..

