

Spanish

Talking about what you and others like [2/2]

- Gustar-type verbs in subject-first sentences

Señorita Allinson

OAK NATIONAL ACADEMY

La fonética

[que]

¿qué?

pequeño

porque
[because]

La fonética

[qui]

quince

¿quién?

quiero
[I want...]

La fonética

Trabalenguas

Poquito a poquito Paquito empaca panqueques en pocos paquetes.

crear	to create, creating
el equipo	team
al aire libre	outdoors
el jefe	boss
el trabajo	job
trabajar	to work, working
estar	to be, being (temporary state/location)

importar

interesar

alegrar

to be important

gustar

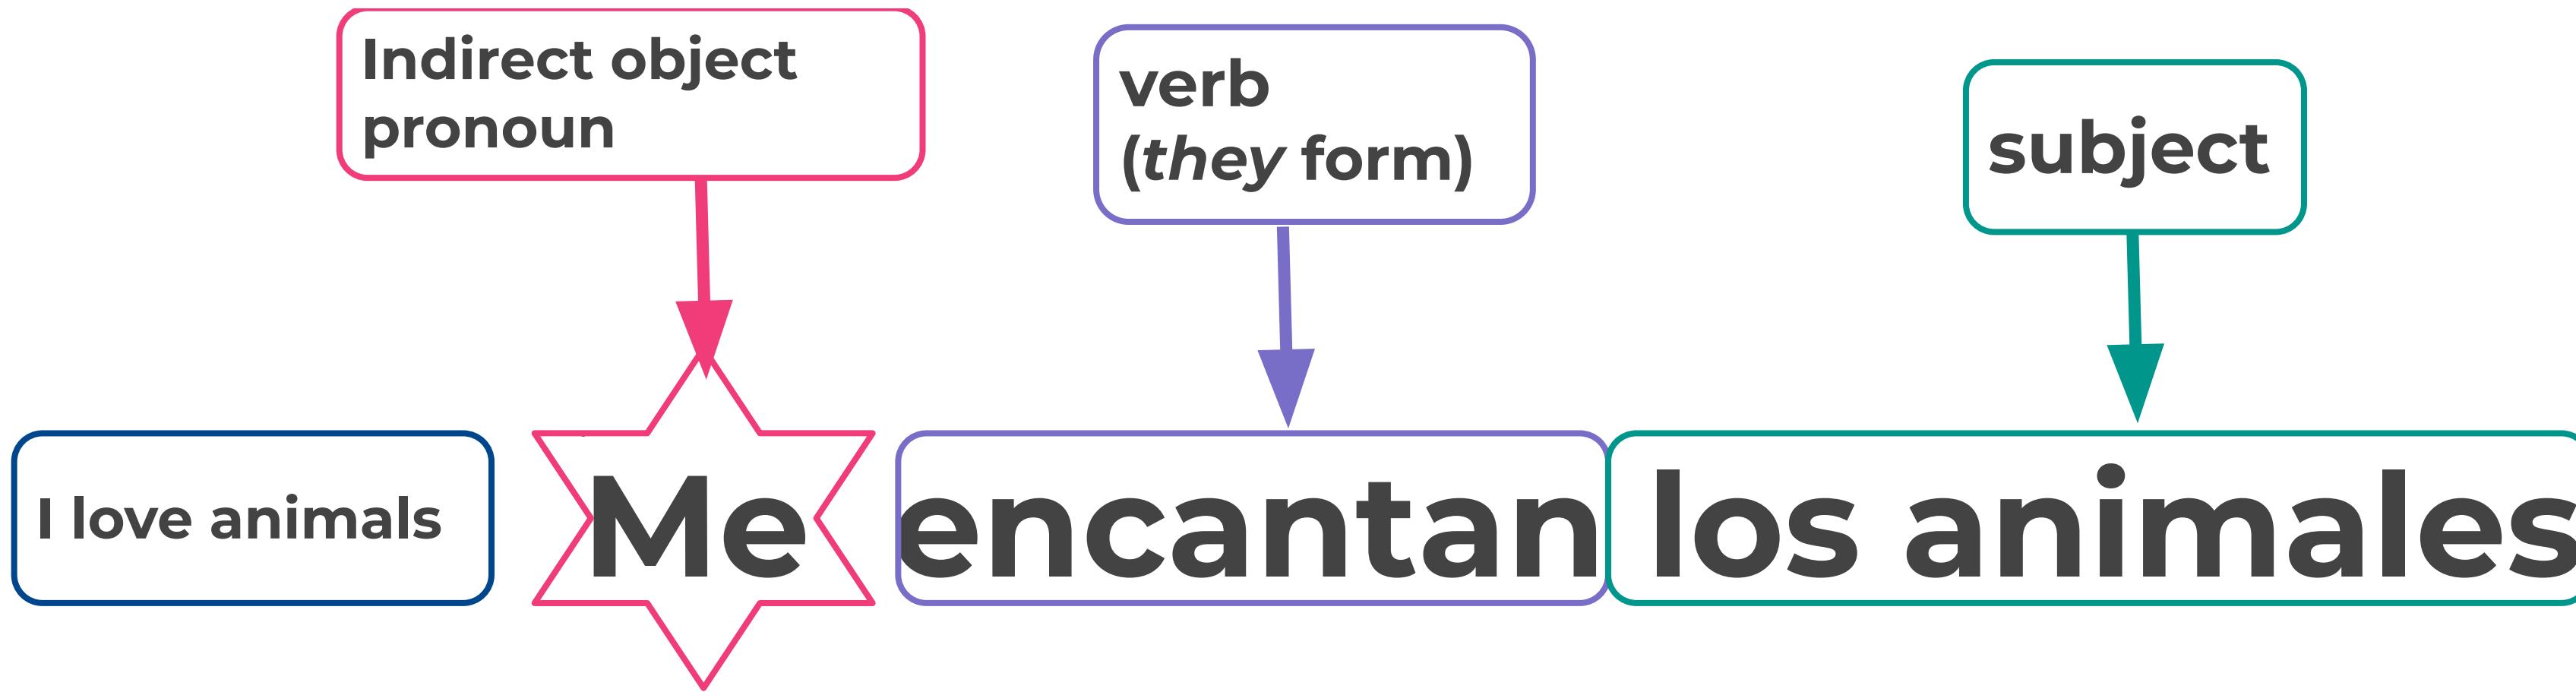

encantar

molestar

Gustar-type verbs: subject first order

Let's remind ourselves of this sentence structure:

In Spanish, the subject can also come at the beginning of the sentence without the meaning changing at all.

I love animals

Los animales me encantan.

Gustar-type verbs

We can put a ‘no’ in front of our opinion phrase to turn it into a negative.

5
No me interesa el trabajo.

The job doesn’t interest me.

How would we change the sentence so the subject comes first?

El trabajo no me interesa.

The job doesn’t interest me.

'Gustar' type verbs followed by the infinitive

To describe an action with a gustar type verb, we must use the infinitive form of the verb in Spanish (most infinitives end in ar/er/ir).

Compare

A mí, me gusta estar al aire libre

A ti, te gusta trabajar en equipo

A él/a ella le encanta crear videos

Remember we can add extra emphasis to show who the object is

I like being outside

You like working in a team

S/He loves creating videos

We use the -ing form of the verb in English (the gerund).

'Gustar' type verbs with infinitives: word order

We can also swap the order of these sentences without the meaning being affected.
In this case, the infinitive is acting as the subject.

Compare

A mí, me gusta estar al aire libre

A mí, estar al aire libre me gusta

A ti, te gusta trabajar en equipo

A ti, trabajar en equipo te gusta

A él/ella, le encanta crear videos

A él/ella, crear videos le encanta

'Me gusta' and 'me gustaría'

To say you would like something, use me/te/le gustaría.

Like 'me/te/le gusta', it can be used with nouns or infinitives

A mí, me gustaría trabajar al aire libre.

I would like to work outdoors.

A ti, te gustaría el trabajo en Italia.

You would like the job in Italy.

A él, le gustaría crear videos.

He would like to create videos.

We can also use this ending with other gustar-type verbs:

me encantaría = I would love

me interesaría = it would interest me

me importaría = it would be important to be

me molestaría = it would annoy me

Summary

1. Indirect object pronouns (from this lesson) in Spanish are: me/te/le
2. “Me gusta el equipo”. The subject in this sentence is: equipo (team)
3. “Le encanta crear videos.” is:
“He/she loves to
create videos”
4. “Los animales me encantan” is:
“I love animals”
5. “Me gustaría trabajar al aire libre” is:
“I would like to work
outdoors”

