

Numeracy: Money - Applying Learning

Exchanging coins in a real-life setting:

Lesson 4 of 4

James

What am I learning today?

Objectives

To exchange the appropriate amount of coins for an item in a real-life setting.

N.B. It is not necessary for the learner to understand the values of each coin nor to count the coins individually to give to the clerk.

Vocabulary

pound

pence

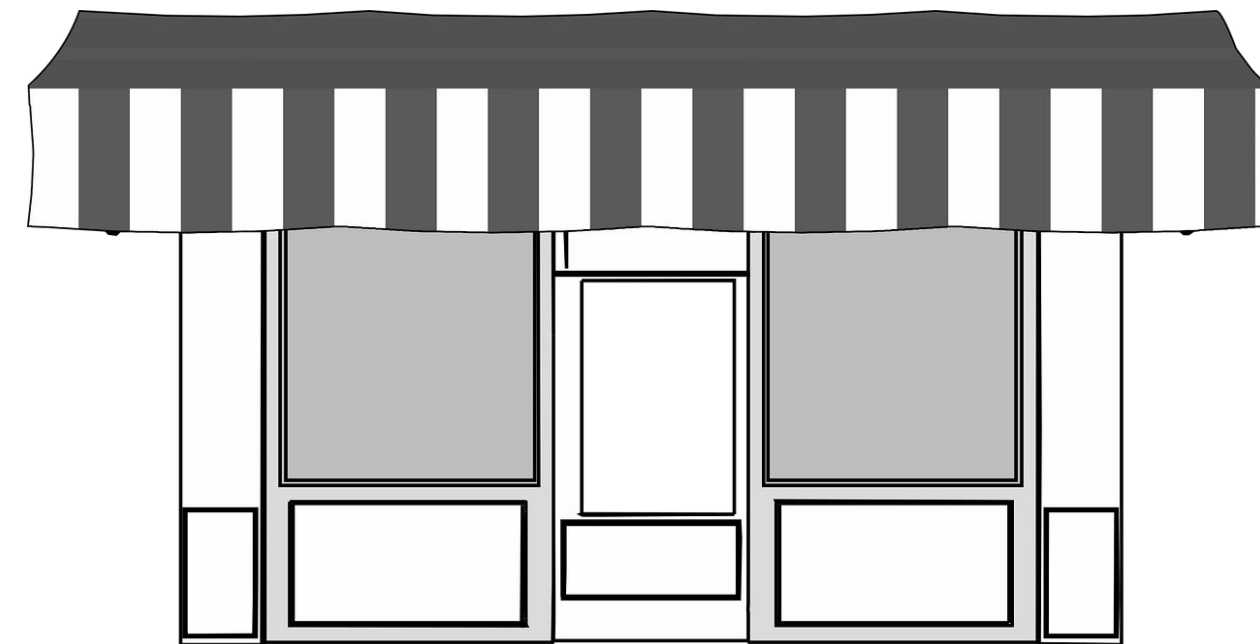

notes

For this lesson, you will need:

- Money
- Shop or Market
- Explanatory Note

An explanatory note is provided at the end of this resource. Adults may print this out or make a similar one themselves.

At the shop...

Credit: Pixabay

At the shop...

Credit: Pixabay

Challenge:

Exchanging money in a shop

Create a shopping list

Choose some items that you are going to buy at the shop or market.

Wait for the cost from the clerk

Allow your child to hear the cost from the clerk.

Choosing items

Encourage your learner to identify the items they put on the shopping list verbally or through gesture.

Exchanging coins

Support the learner to count coins and hand these to the clerk, waiting to receive their goods.

Money

Lesson 4: Exchanging coins in a real life setting.

Make it easier

Give the learners the coins needed to exchange for their items.

Purchase items with round numbers such as £1.

Use pictures of coins for children to match their values.

Make it harder

Begin to introduce the concept of coins with different values.

Begin to order the values of coins and notes to give context to their values.

More ideas

Encourage your learner to be more independent in their use of money.

Encourage them to anticipate being required to hand over the money before they get their items.

Explanatory note

Thank you for your patience whilst I support this learner with learning difficulties to understand exchanging money for items. This may take a little longer than usual but is an important life skill which I am teaching in order to prepare this young person for adulthood.

